Shanghai Xishui Agriculture & Animal Husbandry Equipment

Xi SHUI devote to provide the livestock with the most comfortable drinking way.

● How to keep animal drinking water sufficient, clean and no wasting?

Water, is indispensable and irreplaceable in livestock growth. It plays an important role in digestion and absorption of fodder, delivery of nutrition, defecation of metabolism and faeces, growth and reproduction, lactation, etc.

● WATER SUPPLY

In large-scaled livestock farms, clean water for livestock should be constantly supplied to meet the demand of production. Since the livestock health will be directly affected if the water supply is polluted or by unreasonable way, it has become the primary task to strength the management of safe water supply and scientific water use to ensure livestock drinking water quality.

Drinking water is the main source of livestock body water. Sufficient and timely drinking water supply is the most basic for ensuring the healthy growth and development of livestock. That's why we should not only keep the drinking water high quality without pollution, conforming to drinking water quality standard and sanitary requirement, but also ensure constant supply and suitable temperature, to promote livestock normal and fast growth.

● WATER SAVING

Although drinking water is key important in livestock water use, it is a major factor which lead to sewage. Minimizing the waste of water resource will also reduce the cost of sewage treatment. Xishui will help you achieve minimizing the waste of water by improving the design of drinker equipment and applying water level controller.
